Hard Pull For School Efficiency: York County Proves Redistricting Pays

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Farm Editor

YORK, Neb.—The long, hard pull for school redistricting across the state has met with defeat, victories and half-victories but it has also left in its wake clear examples of what change can bring about in terms of better educational facilities and more efficient school operation.

York County stands in the first rank of those counties which have cut down their districts and consolidated for better schools and better teachers.

In three years, York County has cut the number of its districts from 94 to 24 with only 11 rural, one-teacher schools left in the county. In the three years of change there was no departure from a principle of voluntary action—a matter of pride for supporters of redistricting.

'Voluntary Basis'

Mrs. Hazel Comstock, York County Superintendent, said "Everything was done on a voluntary basis and it worked out very peacefully." The drive for redistricting was spearheaded by Evan Miller of Benedict and other members of the York County Reorganization Board. Miller, who was president of the board, and the others toured the county districts and explained school consolidation to the patrons. From there, the matter was left up to the districts involved.

McCool Junction merger led off the move for change, followed by mergers of districts with York, Waco, Bradshaw and Henderson. The school district at Benedict consolidated before the campaign began — back in 1922. The largest merger was McCool, which was joined by 13 districts.

Valuations, which tell the real story of a district's welfare, were in for some sharp increases. The valuation of the Henderson district, for example, increased from $788,170 in 1951 to $3,004,010. Bradshaw's valuation was up to $3,719,265 this year compared to less than a million two years ago.

Mrs. Comstock said "The people in the county like the redistricting very much on the whole." One of the advantages of the new system, she pointed out, has been the increase in teacher qualifications. A teacher must have two years of college in order to teach in the reorganized district. This in turn raises teacher salaries, she added.

Figures show that teacher salaries in York County have increased an average of more than $100 a year since the change.

The consolidation and corresponding increases in valuations are bringing about a change on the face of the county. Modern school buildings of glass, brick and steel are going up in several towns.

Already in partial operation and soon to be completed is the $450,000 consolidated high school and elementary school at Henderson. This building will provide classroom space for the 230 grade students and 110 high school facilities.

One of the objections to consolidation when the plans were proposed was the increased distances which rural children would have to travel between their homes and school. This difficulty is being taken care of by the fleet of school buses rapidly acquired by the schools. The buses now number 31 for the county, twice as many as were in the county last year.

Highway Toll Tops '52 Mark

Two Deaths Bring State Total To 296

Nebraska's highway fatality record assumed a foreboding character Sunday night as the 1953 toll rose to 296—one ahead of the number registered at this time in 1952.

Number 296 was Eddie Potter, 57, of Omaha who died from injuries suffered Saturday night in a two-car collision at 90th and West Dodge Streets.

Earlier in the day, Kenneth Dunlap, 30, of Alma, became the state's 295th victim — tying the grisly mark set for this time in 1952—when he died in the Grand Island Veterans Hospital from injuries he received in a car-truck crash near Alma.

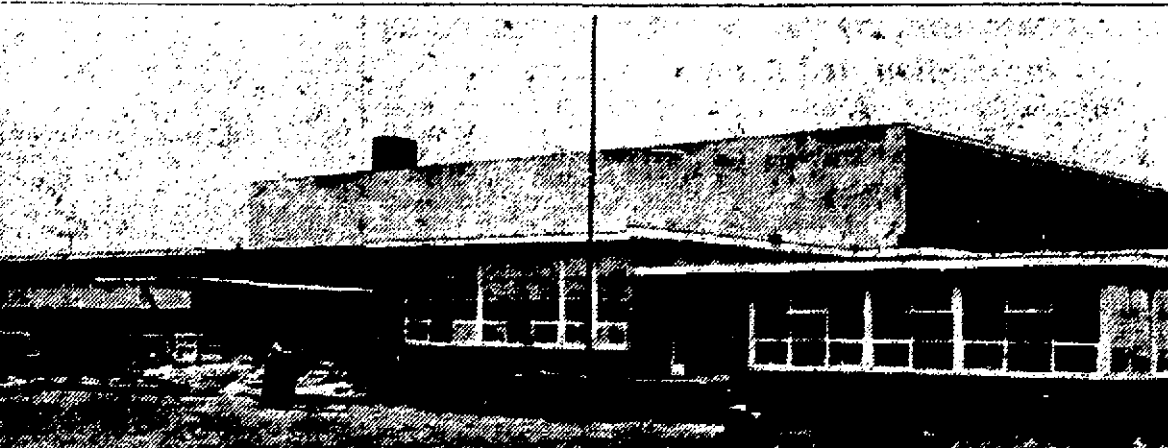

Potter's wife, Mary, 57, suffered chest, back and eye injuries. The driver of the other car, Harland Berieria, 17, and his passenger, Dorothy Chesler, 18, both of Omaha, escaped serious injury.

State Patrolman Norman Peterson said the Potter car, northbound on 90th Street, pulled into Dodge Street from the south. It was struck broadside by the Berieria auto, which was eastbound, the patrol added.

Potter was managing director of the Midwest Retail Farm Equipment Association.

Investigating officers said the car driven by Dunlap crashed into the rear of a truck in a heavy fog three miles south of Alma on Highway 183. The truck was driven by William Beform of Hayes, Kan.

Dunlap is survived by his widow and two small children.

Plans Altered For Visit

No Specific New Development Indicated

TOKYO (Monday) (AP)—Vice President Nixon announced Monday he will visit troubled Iran at President Eisenhower's request in early December while returning to the United States from a tour of Asia.

He gave no details, but indications were he would stop in Iran for two days after his scheduled departure, Dec. 9 from Karachi, Pakistan.

Nixon made the announcement shortly after he arrived in Tokyo — as Japan's first "state guest" — over 10 years—for conferences that may help determine the role this country will play in helping to stabilize Asia.

"I am going to Iran," Nixon said in a statement, "at the request of President Eisenhower and I will bring with me the friendship and respect of the American people, who share with the President and myself, a deep concern for the well being of Iran."

HST's Speech May Break 'Tie' With GOP Over White

Truman Says Hoover Attended Meeting Which OK's Alleged Spy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Veteran politicians agreed Sunday that thus far Republicans and Democrats have fought to a political tie in the Harry Dexter White case, with the heaviest scrambling likely to come this week.

Meanwhile, Harry Truman said Sunday night that J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, attended a conference at which the fate of the late Harry Dexter White was discussed.

The former President arrived home Sunday from New York and said his "all out" radio and television speech on the White case Monday night was all written.

The address will be carried simultaneously on radio and television by ABC, NBC and CBS at 10 p.m., CST.

WOW will carry Truman's speech at 10:30 p.m. Other radio stations plan to carry the speech, but definite times had not been established. KMTV will carry the live telecast at 10 p.m.

Truman was questioned about published reports that his speech would explain White was kept in government service under a plan to trap an alleged Communist spy ring.

Case Discussed

According to the reports, associates of Truman have said White's case was discussed at a conference of Hoover, Tom C. Clark, then attorney general and now a supreme court justice, and the late Fred Vinson, former chief justice. The plan to retain White in government service allegedly was agreed on at that conference.

Truman said Hoover attended such a conference, but he did not fix the time of the conference or say who attended.

"That's all I'm going to tell you now," he told a reporter. He said his speech from Kansas City will answer all the questions that can be answered at this time."

Truman told newsmen in St. Louis that they'll "have something to write about tomorrow (Monday) night." He said the speech was already written, though he still had "a few corrections" to make.

Asked if he would term the speech "political," Truman replied, "No, definitely not."

Truman's decision to speak out immediately presented Brownell with an unexpected political windfall. The attorney general goes before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee Tuesday afternoon for a further explanation of his charges. He will have the advantage of Truman's prior statement, and he also will be on radio-TV hookups at 1:30 p.m. (CST).

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said in an interview Truman's timing testified to the former President's "supreme confidence in his case."

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) chimed in that "No one in his right mind presumes that Brownell has told the full story."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said he thinks the public is entitled to the "full story" from both Truman and Brownell.

"I hope this matter won't become involved in partisan fighting," Knowland said. "Democrats and Republicans alike should be interested in learning from this case whether there still are gaps through which spies can get into our government."

In a speech to the Executive Club in Chicago on Nov. 6, Brownell said it was "an established fact that White was a spy," that an FBI report to Truman through his military aide, Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan and that "Harry

Love Wins As Blind Pair Wed

Once again it has been proved that love conquers all. Love for each other, their church and many friends all combined to bring happiness to Carl Klien and Arline Besse, both blind for many years.

Sunday night they became Mr. and Mrs. Klien.

Rev. M. W. Deming united the couple in marriage before 650 guests at the College View Seventh Day Adventist Church.

A reception for the happy pair was held at the church annex following the ceremony. Carl and Arline met "about three or four months ago" at the Braille Club, a local organization for the sightless, and the romance grew.

The groom once regained limited vision after losing his sight, but now like his bride is totally blind.

Present plans call for Mr. Klien to continue his work at the Union College furniture factory.

And the new Mrs. Klien? She'll have a full time job keeping house for Carl at their new apartment in College View.

Diplomats Get Down To Work On Peace Meet

PANMUNJOM (Monday) (AP)—American and Red diplomats agreed today to get down to work immediately on naming the site, time and nations to be invited to a Korean peace conference.

The thorny problems will be taken up by two subcommittees meeting simultaneously, starting tomorrow.

One will discuss the composition and site of the fateful peace conference. The other will seek to fix the time.

U.S. Envoy Arthur H. Dean announced the plan today after a 1 hour 13 minute meeting with Chinese and Red and North Korean representatives.

Blair Man Is Critical

OMAHA (AP)—Donald Cook, 40, of Blair, was in critical condition at an Omaha hospital Sunday night from injuries suffered when he was struck by a car near downtown Omaha.

Cook suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and severe head injuries when he was struck by a car driven by Msgr. E. A. Flanagan of Omaha, pastor of Holy Angels Church.

Cook was the driver of a car involved in an accident in which his wife was injured fatally in Blair Sept. 23. Mrs. Cook died in an Omaha hospital.

A Blair jury found no evidence of "negligence or criminal intent" in the accident involving Mrs. Cook. Cook said the two had argued earlier.

Rescue Car Accident

OMAHA (AP)—Three persons were injured, one seriously Sunday night when an auto hit the side of a Fire Department rescue squad car.

Injured seriously was Howard Kimsey, 48, Omaha driver of the car. Kenneth Rucker, 8, and Henry Schmidtke, both of Omaha, escaped with minor injuries. Schmidtke is a fireman.

L. L. Coryell Sr., 85, of 2901 Stratford, a part-time house owner and former oil businessman, was reported in "quite serious condition" at his home Sunday after suffering a heart attack early Sunday afternoon.

He was unconscious for some time. According to his physician late Sunday night, Coryell was "resting much more comfortably" but was still in serious condition.

C. CLYDE MITCHELL

'Surpluses Or Action Is Choice'

NU'S Mitchell Speaks At Unitarian Meeting

America is going to have agricultural surpluses for at least the next five years, if the weather is normal, unless positive action is taken, C. Clyde Mitchell said Sunday.

Mitchell, chairman of the agricultural economics department at the University of Nebraska, was guest speaker at the Unitarian Student World Fellowship breakfast.

Surplus problems can be met, he said, by decreasing production, increasing consumption, or attempting both types of adjustment simultaneously. Either course, he said, will require changes in law and either will be expensive.

Income Cuts

If farm production were reduced to the point where surpluses were avoided, he said, "cuts would probably result in considerable income reductions to large segments of the agricultural population, particularly where shifting into alternative employment of human and agricultural resources was difficult."

Mitchell also pointed out that production cuts in this country might foster international resentment.

"Programs aimed at greatly increased consumption at home and abroad," he said, "would demand legislation, appropriation, administrative machinery far in excess of the modest amounts presently planned in these areas of action."

There would be no sense in using surpluses, he said, if the only result were an increase in population with no long-run benefits.

Mitchell said many persons believe the growing population will in a few years be able to "eat up our surpluses."

'Important Steps'

"Widespread acceptance of this proposition might prevent the nation taking some important steps that need to be taken now to meet crucial problems of American agriculture in the next few years," he said.

However, he said technical advance in agricultural production may cause shortages rather than surpluses in 1975. Revolutionary new discoveries in food production could force America to make widespread changes in the organization of agricultural resources regardless of the 1975 population, he said.

Mitchell has been the central figure of a controversy brought about by the Hall County Farm Bureau's objection to a magazine article written by him.

'Bluish Flash' Was Meteor Or Fire Ball, Scientists Say

Two scientific opinions were forwarded Sunday in explanation of a brief but spectacular phenomenon witnessed by scores of persons in Nebraska and Iowa early Sunday.

Six Lincoln persons reported seeing the "bluish flash." One of them, Jack Clark of 2240 So. 47th, described it like this:

"I noticed what looked like a flash of lightning that lit up everything for just a second. I looked out of the car and saw a trail of smoke directly overhead. It made a jagged track in the sky and seemed to turn in a circle."

Three others in the car with Clark reported seeing the same thing. They were about two blocks east of the Lincoln Country Club at the time.

Two other Lincoln residents saw the flash from about a point about 12 blocks west of the Clark position. They, however, reported seeing a "glowing white ball followed by a streak of luminous smoke after the flash."

After this disappeared, they said, a doughnut-shaped cloud hung in the sky for sometime.

According to the Associated Press, the light was reported by an airplane pilot 40 miles west of Des Moines, Ia. The Nebraska Safety Patrol said its cars reported seeing the flash at times ranging from 12:22 a.m. to 12:48 a.m.

Calls reporting the phenomenon flooded the Safety Patrol, the Omaha Municipal Airport, and the Ground Observer Corps Filter Center in Omaha, the Associated Press said.

Prof. Oliver C. Collins, associate professor of astronomy at the University of Nebraska, said he thought the description sounded like that of a "fire ball."

'Outer Space'

"Electrical storms sometimes cause this phenomenon," he added. "Generally, fire balls explode high in the atmosphere—about 20 miles—after coming in from outer space. Resistance of the earth's atmosphere causes the object to explode."

Edward F. Stappowich, U.S. Weather Bureau meteorologist at Omaha, reported seeing the light. He, however, believes the flash was caused by a meteor.

He said another Omaha's report that the flash turned red later was an indication that the meteorite was cooling off. Stappowich said the bluish flash could be the initial explosion as the meteorite hit the earth's atmosphere.

Mrs. Anna Woods Dies; Had Lived Here Since 1908

Mrs. Anna B. Woods, 69, 2950 P. died late Sunday evening at her home.

Born Oct. 4, 1884 at Walnut, Ill., she moved to Seward County with her parents before she was a year old. She attended school at Ulysses, Neb.

In 1907 she was married to Howard Woods, who survives, and the couple moved to Lincoln in 1908, living here since that time.

Mrs. Woods was a member of Sacred Heart Parish and the Royal Neighbors.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are three sons, Robert, Luis Obispo, Calif., and John R., and William H., both of Lincoln; three sisters, Mrs. Mary McBride, Waco, Neb., Mrs. Agnes Prochaska, Dwight, Neb., and Mrs. Ellen Turner, Lincoln; three grandchildren and 16 nieces and nephews.

'Man Who Wouldn't Talk' Does: 'Spy' Du Pre Is Great Literary Hoax

NEW YORK (INS)—Bennett Cerf, rueful publisher of "the greatest literary hoax ever perpetrated," said Sunday he will wire booksellers and newspapers to change the listing of the best-selling "the man who wouldn't talk" from non-fiction to fiction.

Cerf, president of Random House Publishers in New York, was only one of thousands of persons taken in by the tales of George Du Pre, a highly respected Calgary, Alberta, businessman who embroidered on his rather tame war-time service with the Royal Canadian Air Force until it became one of the most fantastic spy stories ever conceived.

The list of the gullible—none of whom apparently is angry with Du Pre—includes the writer of the book, Quentin Reynolds, who called it literature's "greatest hoax," the editor of the Reader's Digest, DeWitt Wallace, and the recently retired Minister of Mines of Alberta Province, Nathan E. Tanner.

Wallace, whose magazine carries a commendation of the volume in the current November issue, said everyone felt "very sympathetic" to the 49-year old Canadian who is in a state of complete shock in his Calgary home.

Reynolds, who listened to Du Pre recite his experiences for five days, said the man recited out details "like Balzac or Dumas."

Du Pre's greatest deception began after he returned from service and started making speeches before church groups and Boy Scout meetings.

After he told the first lie, he found he got greater attention for his "message" that "no man can survive without faith in God."

In a short time, his story got control of him and in the end, Du Pre apparently believed himself that he spent five years in occupied France posing as a half-wit and surviving a series of gruesome tortures at the hands of the Gestapo.

Du Pre, who had told his "adventures" to thousands of Canadians and has the newspaper clippings to prove it, was exposed by a newspaper reporter who actually had been in war-time France as a British agent.

No legal action is being contemplated against Du Pre but the publishing house may offer a rebate to anyone who bought the volume as non-fiction. Nearly 18,000 copies have already been sold, and a third printing ordered.

The Reader's Digest assigned Reynolds to write Du Pre's story after the publication was tipped about him by a Toronto man who heard Du Pre speak.

Reynolds emphasized the extent of the checking done to verify Du Pre's story.

It was particularly believable, he said, since the Canadian was screened and cleared for the sensitive post of confidential assistant to Tanner, who as Mines Minister had charge of the development of Alberta's uranium, oil and mineral deposits.

Du Pre has a reputation for modesty in his home city, and all the money he earned from his share of the digest commendation and book sales went to the Boy Scout organization which is his main interest.

Du Pre's actual overseas experiences were limited to 17 days of training in England. He spent most of the war at a post in British Columbia. It was a fellow veteran of that service who tipped off the newspaper to the hoax story.

Deadlock Broken Suddenly

Shouting, Oaths
Feature Talks

PANMUNJOM, Monday (AP)—The Communists resumed their explanations to Red prisoners of the Korean War Monday after an 11-day break and the interviews quickly shifted to shouting, oath-laden tirades.

North Korean POWs shouted abuse at countrymen attempting to win them back to Communism.

They spat and threw their hats at the Red officers, pounded on tables and benches, writhed in the arms of patient Indian guards and attempted to kick over field tables in the interview tents.

One small prisoner sat with clenched fists shouting, "It's a lie! It's a lie!" over and over again. And the Red officer shouted "Lie!" in a stream right back at him.

Shake Fists
Prisoners leaving the tents at the close of their interviews turned back frequently and shook their fists in gestures of defiance and hate.

The Communist officers clamped their usual slowdown on the interviews. Only a handful of POWs were cleared in the first 75 minutes, and all rejected chance to go home to North Korea.

The talks, which so far have resulted in only 3 per cent of those interviewed returning to Communism, have been stalled since Nov. 5 over Communist demands that 356 Chinese in compound C-22 be forced to face explanations.

Interview 136
On that day the Reds interviewed 136 of 492 Chinese in the compound and asked that the others be brought in Nov. 6. The 356, which came out on the 5th but did not get in the explanation tents because the Red teams dragged out the interviews, refused to emerge a second time.

Elsewhere in the neutral zone U. N. and Communist diplomatic negotiators who broke a three-week deadlock Saturday, were ready to iron out the machinery for arranging the composition, place and time of a Korean peace conference.

Staff advisers had broken the ground in advance with agreement on a five-point agenda to be considered simultaneously by two subcommittees.

India May Join
(In Washington there were reports the Allies might be willing to compromise with the Red demand for Asiatic neutrals by agreeing to India's participation in the peace talks, provided President Syngman Rhee of South Korea is agreeable.)

The Red change of mind came after the forceful Indian commander of the NNRC, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, made a trip to the Communist truce camp at Kaesong. Twice after Thimayya's visit, the Reds again asked for the Chinese prisoners and were refused. Then the Communist line suddenly switched.

Faculty List For Chancellor Choice Down To Thirteen

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents over the weekend heard studies on 13 educators from the university's faculty committee aiding in the selection of a chancellor to succeed R. G. Gustavson. The 13 were remaining eligibles sifted from an original faculty list of 75.

Committee Chairman Clifford Hicks said Sunday, however, that additional names may be introduced as the study proceeds.

Spokesmen for the regents said that consideration of the faculty list did not limit the regents from adding prospects of its own or making its final selection from outside the list.

Tito Won't Go To War For Trieste

BELGRADE, (INS)—Marshal Tito declared Sunday that Yugoslavia "will not go to war" for the city of Trieste but said his nation will "continue to ask" for all of Zone A of the territory outside the port.

Tito said Yugoslavia will not insist on the city, which is populated entirely by Italian nationals, because "we know the Western powers won't give it to us."

The Yugoslav president described the remainder of Zone A of Trieste as "part of our national territory to which we are fully entitled."

Warning Britain and the United States against following through on their promise to turn Zone A over to Italy, Tito said such an action would give Italy a "blank check for future action against our territory."

Tito cautioned the Allies that to give Italy Zone A would mean an "inevitable conflict" between Italy and Yugoslavia.

He branded as false reports that his nation was ready to make major concessions in the Trieste dispute. He also reiterated his opposition to a Trieste plebiscite.

Tito said Yugoslavia wanted to "extend the hand of friendship" but added that he was alarmed by what he called Italy's aggressive attitude.

Arthur L. Hendricks of 5302 Stockwell has discovered that trapping can be a most profitable sideline.

At least, $1,215 for one mink pelt sounds like a good return.

The price, luckily for the mink coat buyer, is not usually so high for a single pelt.

Hendricks won a $1,000 award at the 24th annual National Fur Show sponsored by Sears, Roebuck and Company for the excellent manner in which the pelt was handled and additional prizes of $200 for showing the best pelt in the territory and $50 for sending in the top pelt during one day.

The additional $10 was the price for which the pelt was sold.

Hendricks trapped the mink north of Lincoln. The trapper, who lists hunting, fishing and gardening as additional hobbies, is a machinist for the Burlington Railroad. He is married and the father of four sons.

Grand Jury Indicts Three Councilmen For Conspiracy

SIoux CITY, Ia. (AP)—Three Sioux City councilmen and fruit broker Mark Sabel have been indicted on conspiracy charges by the Woodbury County grand jury.

The councilmen are Nicholas O'Mullink, 38, superintendent of public safety; Clem Evans, 52, superintendent of finance; and Drew Fletcher, 58, superintendent of parks and public property.

The grand jury earlier also had indicted Paul Taylor, Sioux City equipment company salesman, and Hyman B. Zelen, Lincoln, and the Duncan Parking Meter Corp., Chicago, for which Zelen works.

Arraignment of the four Sioux City men, named in three indictments Thursday, has been set for Monday. Sabel, Evans and Fletcher surrendered at the sheriff's office shortly after the indictments were returned. They were released on $1,500 bond each.

Conspiracy Named
Zelen and the parking meter firm was charged earlier with conspiracy to sell meters to the city without lawful bidding.

The grand jury has returned numerous indictments since it started investigating the explosion of a black powder bomb at the Sabel residence last September.

In PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

By J. GORDON ROBERTS

What causes depressions?
The following analysis of depressions was carried in a previous column-series: "History appears to demonstrate that depressions in our country result from one of two immediate causes:

"(1) The unwitting failure of society to supply one or more of its vital segments with adequate compensation for services rendered, or

"(2) Attempt on the part of one segment—or more—of society to enrich itself through speculation or other means without offering value-received in return for such enrichment."

In the past, farmers have been unable to balance production with estimated sales—as manufacturers do. Therefore, good crops have meant discouragingly low prices. Poor crops meant relatively low income even in the face of high prices resulting from scarcity.

Many of our major depressions have been caused in the foregoing fashion.

Government purchase of surplus has to a considerable extent curtailed periodic collapses of the farm economy.

The ideal solution to the farm problem will of course be self-regulation whenever it can be worked out. Meanwhile, it is doubtful that farmers would or should return willingly to their former condition of no balance whatsoever between production and sales outlet.

I have no sympathy, however, with the following opinion expressed by an influential farmer:

"The defense program amounts to a subsidy for industry and labor. If those fellows really went to work, we could have just as much defense at half the price."

"If government subsidizes industry, why shouldn't agriculture get as much as it can?"

In a struggle for survival, economic stability constitutes the very foundation of strength. We, in the United States, should beware that we do not get "ours" from Russia.

In the past, depressions have resulted from taking too much of the national income from production to pour into non-productive speculation.

Pouring money unnecessarily into government could have the same result—except that the amount of hazard would be increased both by the amount of money and by loss of incentive.

This column runs Monday through Friday.

Here are two points to remember when you buy a car! . . .

CHEVROLET PRICES

CHEVROLET VALUE

are the LOWEST is the HIGHEST of any line in its field!

See it, drive it, and you'll know that it alone brings you all these features of highest-priced cars at the lowest prices and with such outstanding gasoline economy!

You know, of course, that again in 1953 more people are buying Chevrolets than any other car.

And you also know that more people own Chevrolets today than any other make—it's ahead in total registrations by almost 2 million!

But would you like to know why this is true? Would you like to know what it means to you in terms of getting maximum motor car value? Then, come examine Chevrolet, and see for yourself.

You'll find, as so many others have found, that Chevrolet gives more fine features at lowest cost:

More beauty, inside and out, with the widest choice of body-types and colors in its field.

More driving skills, with either Chevrolet's two great high-compression Valve-in-Head engines!

More comfort, more road-stability and more safety with this stronger, heavier, longer lasting car!

More value throughout, when you buy, while you drive, when you trade!

Come in, confirm these facts to your own satisfaction, and you, too, will choose Chevrolet!

*Optional at extra cost. Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine available on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models. Power Steering and E-Z-Eye Plate Glass available on all models.

Fashion-First Bodies by Fisher. Extra-Easy Power Steering.* 115-h.p. high-compression engine in Powerglide models—108-h.p. high-compression engine in gear-shift models. Advanced Powerglide automatic transmission.* Largest brakes in its field. E-Z-Eye Plate Glass.* Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows of sedans and coupes.

Soviets Want Conference—But On Their Own Terms

Say China Must Be Included

LONDON (AP)—Pravda and Izvestia repeated Sunday Russia's claim that it does want a foreign ministers conference—but on the Soviet-set condition that Communist China be included.

The two papers—Pravda, the official organ of the Russian Communist Party, and Izvestia, the Soviet Government newspaper—accused Western statesmen and newspapers who say Russia does not want such a conference of "perverting" the facts.

The two newspapers claimed Russia's latest note to the Western Big Three on a foreign ministers' meeting as well as Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's news conference statement Friday had been "perverted" by Western newspapers to suggest that the Soviet Union has shut the door on talks aimed at easing long tension.

The United States, France, and Britain have invited Russia three times to hold the talks at the foreign ministers' level. Russia, in its latest reply of Nov. 3, followed standard Soviet policy by demanding that Red China be included. Molotov repeated that demand at his news conference and accused the West of blocking the meeting.

Vladimir Kudryavtsev, political commentator for Izvestia, accused the West of creating a "deliberate muddle" around the Molotov conference because "reactionary foreign papers" are annoyed by Russia's consistent attitude on questions relating to relaxing international tension.

New Auto Insurance Plan, Rate Hikes Effective Today

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

Increase in rates for automobile liability insurance will be put into effect Monday by about 75 per cent of the companies providing such coverage, Thomas R. Pansing, state insurance director, announces.

The new rating plan which was submitted by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters in behalf of its members and subscribed companies also provides a more detailed classification of drivers based on experience with damage claims.

Pansing said the department has approved the schedules of the underwriters and predicted that most other companies would adopt similar rates in the near future.

"The new plan, which classifies private passenger automobiles in seven classes of risks for rate purposes, apportions insurance costs more equitably among insured than the three-class plan formerly in use," Pansing explained.

Unfavorable auto liability insurance experience in the state results in the revision of old rates upward, Pansing said. "From 1950 to 1952, the average cost of claims increased 33 per cent for property damage and 11 per cent for bodily injury," he continued. "More than half of the states have already adopted the new classification plan, Pansing said. Under the new plan non-business cars with no operators under 25 years of age and which are not used in going to or from work will have lower rates or remain unchanged.

"Maximum increases apply only to a small minority of cars, those owned or principally operated by unmarried persons under 25 years of age and classed as the most hazardous private passenger car risks," Pansing continued.

Old Plan

Under the old plan private passenger cars were divided into three classes depending upon use of car and age of driver. These factors are still used but Classes 1 and 2 are subdivided into three classes each. Class 3 remains unchanged with individually-owned cars for business with no drivers under 25 years of age and corporation cars with no age limit.

Farmers and clergymen will receive rates 20 per cent below those which otherwise would apply to their private cars while at present they receive a 15 per cent discount.

The rates vary by territories.

Territory
Class 1. Non-business and no operator under 25	$38 $32 $20
Class 2. Business or non-business with operators under 25	63 53 33
Class 3. Used for business no operator under 25 or owned by corporations with no age limit	55 46 29

Territory
1	2
New: Class 1A. Non-bus. car, no operator under 25, not driven to work	$38 $31 $20
Class 1B. Same except driven to work less than 10 miles one way	42 36 23
Class 1C. Same except driven to work more than 10 miles one way	51 44 28
Class 2A. Bus. or non-bus. car, under 25 operator (non-owners) or under 25, married owners and operators with children	66 56 37
Class 2B. Bus. or non-bus. owner or principal operator under 25 and married	75 64 41
Class 2C. Bus. or non-bus. owner and unmarried	91 77 50
Class 3. Used for business, no operator under 25, and cars owned by corporations regardless of operator age	60 51 32

Regents Don't Plan General Mitchell Meet

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents will not conduct a general hearing on the Hall County Farm Bureau's complaint against C. Clyde Mitchell, chairman of the department of economics of the College of Agriculture, Des Moines, Mitchell's case as an administrative matter the board said at week end that it would confer with Dean W. V. Lambert of the College of Agriculture next Saturday.

Neither Mitchell nor Farm Bureau representatives will attend. J. Leroy Welsh, Omaha regent and foremost critic of Mitchell, rejected judgment of the economics department head based on individual speeches and articles cited by the Hall County Farm Bureau. He expressed the opinion that Mitchell's case should be considered on the possible "discredit" he may have brought to the university by attempting to impose doctrine on students.

He added that the regents' position was not one of by-passing the administration, but leaving the correction of the problem to the administration.

Pending Saturday's conference with Dean Lambert the regents will study the recent writings and speeches of Mitchell. The Hall County Farm Bureau, advocate of flexible price supports on farm products, took issue with a recent Mitchell article in Capper's Farmer advocating fixed supports.

HOW AMERICA IS CHANGING

Now, more married women than single women have jobs!

TODAY, far more women are working outside the home than at the peak of World War II. And of the more than 19 million women employed in the U.S. in the summer of 1953, over 10½ million are married!

Many women work to support themselves and their dependents. Others are adding to the family income. Others work because they like to. Those who stay home to take care of children are finding more time to devote to community activities.

And life insurance is keeping pace and is constantly growing more flexible to meet new needs.

For example, in recognition of the economic importance of women, the life insurance companies are gearing their services more and more closely to the needs both of the woman in business and the homemaker. As a result, women, who have always had a large stake in life insurance as beneficiaries, today own about 30 billion dollars worth of life insurance—or nearly one-fifth of the total.

Women are buying life insurance for the same reasons as men—to help provide an income for their children, or for themselves in retirement years.

For almost every family, the needs for protection are constantly changing—and life insurance can be planned to meet these changes.

A suggestion: Have your needs or circumstances changed? Have you looked over your life insurance to see how it stacks up with your present way of living and the goals you and your family have set for yourselves?

According To Plan

Gov. Robert Crosby occupied a hot seat when two highway disputes were placed in his lap.

Although his decision to uphold the Highway Department in planned improvements on U.S. 183 near Bassett and State Highway 7 south of Springfield may have displeased local communities, it would seem that the governor should be commended. Within the last two years the state engineer's office has made the most thorough, comprehensive study of highway needs in Nebraska since the beginning of the program of road building. We are moving ahead on the basis of that study. Its conclusions naturally will come under fire, particularly when there are proposals to relocate portions of a highway. In the end there must be a final judge. The Highway Department itself, considers every engineering factor as well as broad objectives in the development of the state system, should serve as that judge.

In replying to the protest against the plans for relocating sections of two heavily traveled highways, the governor pointed out the importance of moving forward without unnecessary delay. "So far as it lies within my power," Mr. Crosby said, "I shall see that these badly needed improvements are completed at some location within the time scheduled . . ."

Any other course, the governor indicated, permits a minority of citizens to delay a benefit that the public is entitled to receive.

A Spot For Mr. Hoover

The stage was being set, it was indicated in the news columns, to call the head of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover, to refute one statement that former President Truman may make in his own defense against charges voiced by Attorney General Herbert Brownell. If the former president undertakes to justify the retention of the late Harry White in a government post on the basis that White was being used as a decoy to break up a Russian spy ring, then Mr. Hoover will be asked to affirm or deny that statement.

It would place Mr. Hoover in a position of great embarrassment. By common agreement the FBI has performed a great job through these troubled years. Part of its success can be attributed to the fact that Mr. Hoover has built up a great organization capable of protecting this country against external dangers most effectively. At the same time the FBI has conducted a relentless, efficient campaign against organized crime here within the borders of the United States.

Beyond organizational efficiency, Mr. Hoover and his staff have been free from political embroilments at all times.

If questioning him will serve any useful purpose, then Mr. Hoover should be interrogated, by all means. The Republican board of strategy in Congress may be anticipating developments that never actually happened, but it should look long and hard before it decides to bare the secrets of the FBI to public gaze.

Each day adds to the absurdities which Attorney General Brownell's unfortunate Chicago speech has precipitated.

The New York Post has dug up what purports to be a visit which the late Harry Dexter White paid to President Eisenhower in company with former Treasurer Morgenthau, at which time the so-called "Morgenthau Plan" for postwar Germany was born. Mr. Eisenhower had denied ever having heard of White. But what difference does it make whether Morgenthau, White, and a man named Smith visited Eisenhower while the latter was in Britain and at that time talked to him. Actually, the so-called "Morgenthau Plan" never got beyond the talking stage. And General Eisenhower could not be expected to remember all the many visitors who called upon him in his busy war and postwar years.

We trust that the FBI, with its magnificent record of service, does not become involved in this one.

The Path Of Thrift

In this bright new age which is aptly characterized by an ever faster production dog chasing a frenzied consumption cat around a tree, the quality of thrift it just an innocent by stander getting nothing out of it but a good bumping around.

The older generation frequently looks back with nostalgia to the pokey horse-and-buggy days when the race could be won by more than just the swift. There was always the privilege of thrift. Lacking an inheritance or a special gainful talent one could resort to the saving art and accumulate enough to tide him through old age. It was a desirable attribute for the greatly successful few, but it was a downright boon to the average man.

But it doesn't work out that way any more. Thrift doesn't fit the philosophy of spend-to-work and work-to-spend. If it were applied, then the wheels of prosperity would slow down and there would be a crisis. How far this work-to-spend doctrine has gone was defined recently by H. W. Steinhaus, research specialist of the Equitable Life Assurance society. He said that it is now virtually impossible to accumulate enough to provide an adequate income in old age. Said he, "There are now 13,200,000 persons over 65. If these had somehow managed to save enough to buy all the corporations in the United States the total dividend payments of slightly over $9 billion in each of the last three years would have paid to each of them only $690 a year."

The Right Medicine

The Philippine election is over and Ramon Magsaysay is president. He defeated Elpidio Quirino by a decisive margin. Although it was a turbulent campaign U.S. military forces were kept out of it. There was no hint of intervention.

It was an interesting election as well as an important one to the United States which granted independence to the Philippines after World War II. In it was the deeply running question of American prestige and goodwill in an Asiatic nation which once was satellite but is now free to pick its friends.

It was significant that Quirino, one of the founding fathers and certainly a leader who used American aid to bolster his administration, made an issue of American influence. He took an anti-American stand and faced Magsaysay who staked his political life on Philippine preference for U.S. friendship.

His victory clearly demonstrated the warmth held by the rank and file for the West and for America especially. The original resistance to American control and the years of dependence did not embitter the Filipinos. Rather, it generated confidence and goodwill. The results clear a host of American doubts and uncertainties in its approach to the entire Asiatic problem. Understanding between the East and the West is not as difficult as some make it. And the American attitude as demonstrated over the years in the Philippines is a sound and reliable one.

Good Place To Go

Americans may fret a little over their President's penchant for absenting himself from Washington to go visiting here and there. But they should never complain over his current jaunt to Canada. Those Canadians know something about public administration.

They have had a balanced budget since 1947. While their defense budget amounts to 12 per cent of the national income, they have been able to take care of it and at the same time experience revenue surpluses. Most amazing of all, they have several times cut taxes and managed to retire one-sixth of the national debt.

Truman Expected To Open Up On Byrnes

WASHINGTON—Here is some of the backstage by-play that has been going on both in Republican and Democratic circles about the dynamite-laden subject of Harry Dexter White.

First, in Democratic circles: Harry S. Truman originally planned to honor the subpoena served on him by House Un-American Activities Committee Chairman Velde, later changed his mind.

Historical precedents set by other Presidents and dug up for him by former White House Counsel Charley Murphy and Judge Sam Rosenman were one reason for the change. Another was that he figured he could do a better job of presenting his side of the case in a nationwide radio broadcast.

Meanwhile, the ex-President was loaded for bear, was especially sore at the secretary of state, Jimmie Byrnes, who bolted to Eisenhower last year and who tried to put Truman in the hole last week by rushing into print with an announcement that he, Byrnes, had warned Truman about the appointment.

The ammunition Truman has dug up on Byrnes during the past two days is not likely to please the governor of South Carolina. For Truman friends got hold of Byrnes' appointment calendar for this period, also a copy of the FBI report on Dec. 4, 1945. This is the first FBI report on White and the alleged Soviet spy ring and shows it was sent to the secretary of state for a very obvious reason.

It concerned Alger Hiss much more than it concerned Harry White. About five pages were devoted to Hiss, then working under Byrnes in the State Department, several other pages to a Russian-born economist who had been close to Cordell Hull; while only a few lines were devoted to White, then in the Treasury.

Mr. Truman plans to point up Byrnes' receipt of this information and the fact that he permitted Hiss to remain on in the State Department for three months, then accepted his resignation in a friendly manner so that he could take a job one year later under John Foster Dulles, now secretary of state, as head of the Carnegie Foundation.

Truman will also point out that while Jimmie Byrnes was giving him a belated warning about White, he was strangely silent about Hiss, who was working right under Byrnes' nose in the State Department.

Byrnes' appointment calendar shows that he had ample opportunity to talk to Truman about this. He was in Washington from Dec. 4 to Dec. 12, 1945, and the FBI report on Hiss, White, et al, was received on Dec. 5. Byrnes was absent in Moscow from Dec. 12 to Dec. 29, but remained in Washington from Dec. 29 to Jan. 7 during which time it is said, he did not tell Truman anything about either Hiss or White.

Byrnes was out of Washington from Jan. 7 to Jan. 25, 1946, but was back in the Capital from Jan. 25 to Feb. 6. It was on Feb. 5 that Byrnes wrote a memo to the White House calling Truman's attention to White. One day later Byrnes called at the White House personally. At that time, Feb. 6, however, a call from the White House to Leslie Biffle revealed that White had already been confirmed by the Senate.

It was then decided, it is claimed, with the approval of J. Edgar Hoover, that it was better to let White remain in the monetary fund where he could be observed, in an effort to catch any other members of the alleged spy network. This FBI check lasted for approximately one year after the first FBI report was given to Byrnes on Dec. 4, 1945. During most of this intervening time he continued serving under Jimmie Byrnes.

Republican backstage by-play regarding Harry White began with a political tour by Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the congressional committee to re-elect a Republican Congress.

Dick found the Republican party critical of Secretary Benson, irked over lack of patronage, not too happy over Secretary of the Interior McKay, and generally apathetic.

But in Chicago he made a speech about Communists in government and the steps Ike was taking to weed them out. This got a terrific hand. He repeated the speech in other cities. It always rang the bell.

When he got back to Washington, Congressman Simpson reported to Chairman Len Hall of the Republican National Committee, Attorney General Brownell and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. Communists in government, he emphasized, was the only big issue that stirred the nation.

That was the genesis of the Brownell revelation of Harry White. The matter was definitely cleared with the White House and the subject himself knew the Brownell statement was coming. He was also informed that a certain understanding would be worked out with Sen. McCarthy. These will be described in a subsequent column.

The President probably did not, however, realize the full reverberations of this decision. Nor did he apparently recall that he himself had once had a lengthy conference with White in Germany after the war.

For, when the reverberations started, the President was a most surprised man. Walking into his press conference serene and confident, he suddenly became the worst barraged of questions ever hurled at him or perhaps, at any recent President.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Byrnes-Truman Feud Colors White Issue

WASHINGTON — Political friendships have a way of souring into bitter personal enmity. The most fascinating example in contemporary politics is seen in the once beautiful friendship that existed between former President Harry S. Truman and the man he made his secretary of state, James F. Byrnes.

When Truman first came to Washington, green and completely unknowing, the hand-picked selection of Boss Tom Pendergast back in Missouri, Byrnes was his friend and mentor. Jimmy, as Truman quickly came to call him, was knowing in the ways of the Senate, shrewd, an operator whose long experience first in the House and then in the Senate had educated him in all the angles.

In later years, Byrnes has never missed an opportunity to trip up his old friend. It was Byrnes' statement that he had discussed the FBI report on Harry Dexter White with Truman at the time of White's appointment which more than anything else tended to substantiate the story originally told by Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. It was also an embarrassing refutation of Truman's initial comment to the effect that he had not seen the FBI report at the up for confirmation.

But the score between the two enemies who were once such good friends is not yet settled. The feud between them is a kind of sideshow that rivals the main event which is the Communist-in-government issue is a party line fight between Democrats and Republicans.

Those who have been helping Truman to work up his rebuttal, and among the number are former cabinet officers and loyal associates, put great stress on the dates given by Byrnes in his original statement. Byrnes said he discussed with the President in the White House on Feb. 6, 1947, the FBI report dealing with White's activities. This was just as the Senate was confirming White's nomination to the new post with the international monetary fund.

Byrnes was then secretary of state. He had been appointed to that office in July of 1945 shortly before Truman went to Berlin for the Potsdam conference with Stalin and Winston Churchill. Byrnes sat at Truman's elbow during that conference.

According to the Truman associates, the 60-page FBI report contained only a few references to White and his Communist connections as reported by Elizabeth Bentley, the confessed courier for a Soviet spy ring. The report dealt largely with the activities of Alger Hiss and his relationships with the Soviet spy ring both in and out of government. Hiss, who was first publicly challenged before the House Un-American Activities Committee in the late summer of 1948, was represented as the moving force in the conspiracy to convey secret documents to Russia.

At the time that Byrnes says he talked to Truman about White, Hiss held an important position in the State Department. In 1944 Hiss had been deputy director of the Office of Special Political Affairs. In that office he took an active part in the conferences preliminary to the founding of the United Nations.

In 1945 Hiss was made director of the Office of Special Political Affairs. Although Byrnes says he studied the FBI report in question, he apparently took no action to remove Hiss from the department. Here again the dates are interesting. Byrnes resigned as secretary of state on Jan. 20, 1947. Hiss resigned as of Feb. 1, 1947.

As the Truman associates putting the record together have duly noted, was just a year after Byrnes, as secretary of state, says he discussed the Harry Dexter White case with Truman and urged that the President side-track the White appointment.

On Feb. 1, 1947, Hiss became president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. He was selected for that position largely on the determination of John Foster Dulles, who is now President Eisenhower's secretary of state. This last can be taken as a measure of the extraordinary confidence Hiss inspired in those who came in close contact with him. Under the Democrats Dulles was moving in and out of the State Department as a Republican adviser in an effort to achieve a bipartisan foreign policy. While he might not have had access to the confidential FBI report itself, Dulles could certainly have had a complete fill-in on what it contained.

Who first called attention to which alleged spy in the first instance is an unpleasant form of name-calling. One can hardly blame the President for wanting to reply in kind to Byrnes' accusation. But to the public it is likely to seem an exchange between pot and kettle that is hardly edifying.

More light and a little less heat is the urgent need. It may not be possible to give out the FBI report itself although apparently a document released last week by the Senate Internal Security Committee. But surely a paraphrase of all that it contains would help clear up much that is now cloudy and uncertain.

A Look At 1955 Water Situation

If the present trend continues, today's City Council may go down in the memory of many as the most harmonious one in years.

People frequently ask what is going on at City Hall with the thought in mind that nothing is going on of any importance at all. The cause of the lack of argument in past year, a argument among Council members had become the test of how much work the Council was doing.

The present lack of dissension on the Council is not due to any shortage of major projects under way. There has been one development after another at City Hall which could have easily led to quarreling among the Council. Large contracts have been let on expansion of the city's water system, many special improvement districts have been ordered in, real estate has been purchased, a $185,000 storm sewer program has been started and an insurance program is on the verge of completion.

Those projects, while bringing out some honest differences of opinion on the Council at times, have failed, for several reasons, to result in any bitter disputes. For one thing, Council members now are generally much better informed before they vote than they were several years ago.

This again, is the result of several things. All Council members spend more time on all city business than has been the case in previous years.

And besides the general increase in time spent on city affairs by all members, individual members are constantly being assigned to give particular attention to one specific project. In the case of an insurance program for city buildings, Councilmen Chauncey W. D. Kinsey and Pat Ash have explored the field for months.

Instead of having to rely on the statements of an outsider such as an insurance firm or organization, the Council can adopt its insurance program from the recommendations of its own members.

The city's real estate committee with Councilman Rees Wilkinson as chairman recently set up the purchase of certain property for the southeast diagonal at a savings of some $2,000 to the city. The purchase of that property and the contract involved brought no argument from the Council mainly because one of its own members had manipulated the transaction.

Besides a better understanding of the problems by all Council members, there has been a noticeable absence of any vote-trading or outside influences. At least, if there is any of either, it has failed to show up to the average observer.

The Council is still far from perfect, as is every conceivable form of government known to day, and there have been times when the wisdom of Council action has been seriously questioned, but the government the people have today in Lincoln is far superior to what they had several years ago.

With the city's water system improvement program moving rapidly ahead, it might be well to take stock of what Lincoln will have when the summer of 1955 rolls around.

By that time, the water system will have been greatly expanded. A new 5-million-gallon water reservoir, additional pumping and distribution facilities and more wells will be in operation.

But the net result of all that work will be the realization in the summer of 1955 of only 15 million more gallons of water per day. While the new 48-inch transmission line from Ashland to Lincoln will be capable of delivering 40 million gallons of water per day to Lincoln, the city will be able to draw only 15 million gallons per day from the line; its treatment plant and pumping and distribution facilities.

That means the city will have a total supply of water in 1955 of 45 million gallons per day, 35 million gallons from Ashland and 10 million from a not-too-dependable Lincoln well field. That total supply will be 10 million gallons per day more than the 35 million gallons per day peak demand during the past season during the water restriction period.

That 10 million gallons extra is far from any cause for relaxation, particularly since it is extra only in view of peak usage during a restricted usage period. It means that the City Council will not be able to relax for one minute in pushing the water program as fast as it can, not only to 1955, but the immediate years thereafter.

City Engineer D. L. Erickson notes that the current water program calls for further expansion to utilize more of the 48-inch transmission line capacity as it is needed. He points also the fact that there is still another $2 million in bonds authorized but not issued to carry out improvements needed after 1955.

It will be up to Erickson and the City Council to make sure the water demand does not again get so far ahead of the supply as it has at this point. It means not only will the day-to-day consumption over the next two years bear close watching but that those consumption figures must be projected as accurately as possible into the future so Lincoln is not caught short a second time.

Mitchell Article

Broken Bow, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: So we have come to the place where a citizen of this country doesn't dare disagree with government policies without fear of losing his job. Seems to me I've read that the way they do things in Russia. I thought there was something in our constitution about freedom of speech, press, etc.

I read the article by Dr. Mitchell and thought it was the first sensible treatise on the farm situation that those particular publications had printed in a long time. Better me, a greater menace to the freedom of our country in my judgment is this McCarthy mania that is attempting to regiment our thoughts and our opinions. Heaven help us if the time has come when we must keep our ideas to ourselves because they disagree with the party in power. What is happening to our freedom?

Live To Regret

Blair, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The action of Attorney General Brownell in accusing former President Harry S. Truman of deliberately supporting a man "known by the F. B. I." to be a "spy" would seem to be an unforgivable breach of propriety. It was obviously used, in my judgment, in desperation, to influence a political election in California. And the Republicans have talked of "gutter politics."

The time has come for sober reflection on the part of the people of this nation . . . as well as the editors of our major newspapers. How long can this "hate and fear campaign" be prolonged in the headlines without endangering our very way of life? It appears to have been conceived, a few years back, by Republican politicians, desperate to get into power in government. It has been nurtured and spread further by McCarthy, whose sole ambition is to become President of this nation, it has been charged.

McCarthy's tactics bear a pronounced similarity to those employed by Adolf Hitler in his rise to unprecedented power. Hitler incited a hatred and distrust into a fascist State. McCarthy would have us believe that there is a sinister person, loosely called a Communist, behind every tree, ready to pounce out and devour. How utterly stupid and glib that a people be? I'm afraid that McCarthy knows!

I fear that the newspapers of this nation, and the politicians (Republican), are building a Frankenstein. They will live to fear, and regret.

Tricky Chinese

Omaha, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Much speculation has arisen from time to time in regard to the proposed peace conference; whether the conference would really take place, just what influence Russia would bring to bear, and whether the Red would dictate to their Chinese satellite.

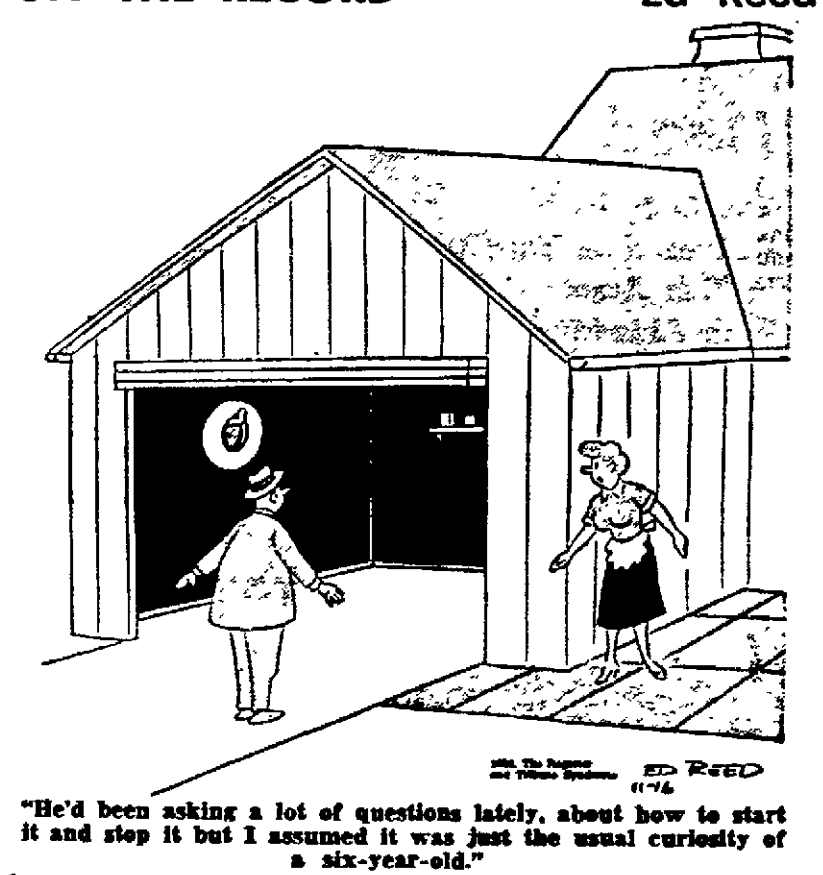

Everyone knows that Russia is tricky, but the fact should not be lost sight of that the Communist Chinese can be tricky, too. It was Bret Hart, back in 1870, who wrote:

'Drought Is As Bad As 1934 In Some Places,' Benson Says

Secretary Ends Cattle Area Tour

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Sunday that an on-the-spot inspection showed that drought conditions on some vital western livestock ranges are as critical as during the severe 1934 drought.

Benson said he expected to announce by the end of this week a decision on whether the federal emergency feed program will be extended to affected areas in Arizona, Nevada, Wyoming and Utah.

Affected, he said, is the fate of hundreds of thousands of head of beef cattle and sheep and the financial stability of hundreds of livestock operators. He said there is a critical shortage of winter feed for the meat animals and a question as to whether many farmers will be financially able to pay current market prices for feeds that would need to be shipped in from areas of plentiful supplies.

The GOP farm chief has flown over and motored through drought-plagued areas in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Wyoming and Utah since he left Washington in a military plane last Thursday to get a first-hand picture.

Pleas For Aid
He will return to Washington Monday with pleas from ranchers, farm leaders, and local and state officials for federal aid in supplying supplementary feed at reduced prices in areas not now eligible for assistance of this kind.

Aid of this nature already is being extended to needy livestock men in 13 southern, mid-western and western states. It has taken nearly all the $40,000,000 which Congress provided for the program.

Benson told newsmen that additional funds will be needed to carry on the program in many areas until feed production and grazing areas becomes re-established.

Forced To Sell
"It appears," he said, "that there are a number of sheep and cattle men who would be forced to sell off their herds and go out of business if they fail to get financial help. We do not want to see these foundation herds liquidated."

Heavy selling of such herds at this time could be expected to have a depressing effect on livestock markets which the government is attempting to strengthen through a meat buying program and other means.

The secretary said he was "gratified" by the spirit and attitude of farmers in the west.

Optimistic
"They are generally optimistic about the future despite problems resulting from the drought and the decline in livestock prices," he said.

"I have found no sentiment out here for government price supports for cattle," he added. A "caravan" of farmers recently called upon the secretary at Washington to set up such supports, and a number of congressmen have made similar requests. But Benson has rejected them on the grounds that supports would be "impractical." "People have gone out of their way to tell me that they are opposed to supports and that they are satisfied with our efforts to stabilize cattle prices," he said.

Guardsmen Dodge Copters, 'A-Bombs' At Camp Ashland

OMAHA (AP)—National Guardsmen of Omaha's headquarters of the Iowa-Nebraska 34th Infantry Division had a rugged week-end at Camp Ashland, Neb.

They got the works of modern warfare in an around-the-clock tactical training problem. For the first time, the state officers and enlisted specialists had to cope with a simulated battle in which "atomic bombs" and mass movements with helicopters were used.

The special training, "Operation Whirlwind," was prepared by Maj. Francis Greenleaf of Lincoln, division supply officer, from material supplied by the Army's Command and Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

The Guardsmen learned that with proper defense and shelter a division could withstand an atom bomb without being wiped out. However, their chief interest was in the helicopter operation based on successful whirlybird use in Korea.

Memorial Rites For NU Faculty Members Held

Memorial services for seven University of Nebraska staff members were held Sunday in honor of those who died during the period Sept. 1, 1952 to Aug. 31, 1953.

The citation of commemoration for Frank J. Taylor, member of the board of Regents from 1925 to 1938, was read by Robert Devoe, member of the Board of Regents. Citations were read for the following faculty members by the deans of their colleges:

Arthur Charles Easton, assistant professor of practical arts, Teachers College; citation read by Dean Frank E. Hrazlik.

Ferdinand Gross, professor of oral surgery, and Jesse Raymond Thompson, instructor in public health dentistry, College of Dentistry; Dean Bert L. Hooper.

Stanislav Grodzinsky, associate professor of anatomy and surgery, emeritus, and John R. Nilsson, professor of surgery, emeritus, College of Medicine; Dean J. P. Tullman.

Elizabeth Irene Itasca, associate professor of modern languages, College of Arts and Sciences; Dean Walter E. Miller.

Dr. Charles G. Kemp, pastor of First Christian Church, served as chaplain with Chancellor John K. Selleck presiding.

Doggie In Window Not Same As Song

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There was a doggie in the window Sunday but it wasn't anything to sing about.

At least not for Meyer Bluestein who owns a department store.

He said the dog, a black mongrel, came in during Saturday's rainstorm.

"I felt sorry for him," said Bluestein. "He was all wet, so I let him stay. But I forgot he was in the store when we closed."

Bypassers noticed the dog in the window and notified the store owner. By the time Bluestein arrived, the pup had chewed on approximately $200 worth of clothing and knocked over a dummy.

Canadian Journey Ends; Ike, Mamie Back In Capital

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington Sunday from a two-day state visit to Canada which is expected to produce a speedup in continental defense plans.

The presidential special train bearing Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower and their party pulled into teaming Union Station at 4:55 p.m. (EST) 20 minutes ahead of schedule.

There was no formal welcoming party at the station and the first family drove immediately to the White House.

A Busy Day In The Life Of A Popular Bride-To-Be

Life never is quite the same for a popular young woman after her betrothal has been announced. As soon as the excitement of best wishes and congratulations is over, the bride-elect must get down to the business of selecting bridal attendants—choosing a wedding gown—selecting her silver pattern—making lists, and of course, going to parties.

For our pictures this morning we chose a day in the life of Miss Sondra Lotman whose marriage to Richard Rosenthal of Dallas, Tex., will take place next Saturday evening. Our first stop with Miss Lotman was at the silver counter where an obliging sales lady showed Miss Lotman just how her silver complements her selected pattern of china, and where the bride-to-be admired a coffee service in her pattern. There was a stop here and there to check this and that, after which we found Miss Lotman toying with the idea of buying a potato ricer in the gadget department—and admiring the hundred and one accessories that would delight the heart of any bride-to-be. We left Miss Lotman at home for a brief rest before dressing for a party—and we picked her up again just as she was thanking her hostess, Miss Barbara Stephens, for a lovely time—and the wonderful shower gifts.

Our next visit with Miss Lotman was in the kitchen of her home where, perhaps inspired by her visit to the kitchenware department, she was busy practicing up on the rudiments of that art that is alleged to be the surest way to a man's heart. We know that she was concentrating very hard on every word the cookbook had to say about this particular recipe—and judging from the way the spoon and the bowl were making contact, it was a do-or-die attempt to master what probably is Mr. Rosenthal's favorite dish.

We Hear That--

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Menke of Chillicothe, Ohio, have been visiting members of their family in Nebraska the last two weeks. They have been the guests of Mr. Menke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Menke of Exeter, and of Mr. Menke's aunt, Mrs. Ora Miner, and Mr. Miner at Friend. A graduate of the University of Nebraska college of law, Mr. Menke has been associated with the National Institute of Municipal Law offices in Washington, D.C., and at present is serving with the government as chief of administration division.

Ceremony On Sunday

The marriage of Miss Muriel Shell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Shell of St. Edward, and Homer M. Simmons Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer M. Simmons of Hobart, Okla., took place Sunday afternoon, Nov. 15, at the First Presbyterian Church in St. Edward. White candles burning in pedestal candelabra, and bouquets of gold and bronze chrysanthemums, appointed the chancel for the 3 o'clock ceremony, which was solemnized by the Rev. Charles Rabenberg.

A prelude of organ music was presented by Mrs. Don Clark, who also played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Eva Jones, vocalist.

Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Leo Hall of St. Edward, and the bridesmaids were Miss Patty Novotny of Omaha, and Miss Patricia Wollen of Ashland. The attendants' identical frocks were fashioned of emerald green tulle over taffeta in the waltz-length with fitted basques and full-gathered skirts. They carried cascades of bronze and gold chrysanthemums. Wearing pale green tulle and taffeta were the flower girls, Miss Diane Hall and Miss Madalyn Shell, nieces of the bride, and Miss Connie Jo Hall, who was ringbearer. Lighting the candles were Mrs. Don Moore of St. Edward, and Miss Dee Ann Simmons of Hobart, Okla., sister of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a

More than 100 guests, including parents and families of the school children, and teachers, attended the Lakeview PTA Fun Night program held on Friday evening at the school.

Mrs. Donald Olson, president of the Lakeview PTA, gave a brief welcoming talk, after which movies were shown, by Richard Banister, principal of the school. The remainder of the evening was devoted to a variety of games in the class rooms, and a social hour.

The entertainment committee was composed of the following room mothers of Lakeview school: Mrs. Don Ravencroft, Mrs. M. A. Durbin, Mrs. Jacob Los, Mrs. David Eaves, Mrs. Donley Sticks and Mrs. O. L. Wohlford. They were assisted by Mrs. Schlegel, kindergarten and first grade teacher. On the refreshment committee were Mrs. Art Kulla, Mrs. Ray Karnopp and Mrs. L. G. Sieckman.

Victorian gown of white panne velvet and silk tulle. Seed pearls and iridescent sequins traced a floral motif to accent the portrait neckline of the molded velvet bodice, and the sleeves were long and fitted. The full tulle skirt, which tapered into a train, was dotted with the pearls and sequins, and her veil of English illusion was held by a coronet of the pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of white Fuji chrysanthemums and pale yellow roses.

Serving Mr. Simmons as best man was Jerry Brown of Columbus, and the ushers were Dale Newman of Newman Grove, and Ernest Arrigo of Lincoln.

The bride is a graduate of Bryan Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, and Mr. Simmons is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Delta Sigma Pi.

Marriage Solemnized

Miss Betty Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, became the bride of Ernest L. Motis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Motis, all of Exeter, at a 9 o'clock morning ceremony on Saturday, Oct. 24. The chancel of St. Stephen Catholic Church at Exeter was appointed with lighted white candles and bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums for the double ring service, which was solemnized by Msgr. P. J. Healy.

As the 175 guests assembled, Mrs. Clarence Meyers sang, accompanied by Mrs. John Menke, organist. Mrs. Menke also played the wedding music.

The maid of honor was Miss Bonnie Becker of Exeter, who wore a frock in the crimson shade fashioned with a stain basque and full skirt of tulle-over-satin. Costumed identically in tones of aqua and gold were the bridesmaids, Miss Bonnie Miller, sister of the bride, and Miss Marlene Motis, sister of the bridegroom. The attendants carried bouquets of gold chrysanthemums and wore clusters of the flowers in their hair. Miss Karen Kay Kovanda of Friend was the flower girl, and ringbearer was Charles McNeil of Lincoln.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of white nylon

Entertains Club Members

Mrs. A. C. Stiles was hostess to the members of the Jolly James Wednesday afternoon. A guest of the club was Mrs. Guy Stevens, and winning prizes in the program of games were Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Otto Regelen and Mrs. Fred Schultz. The next meeting of the club will be held at 11 o'clock, Tuesday, Nov. 24, at the home of Mrs. Robert Fees, 315 No. 18th.

Well Anyway--It Was Fun

WELL, the week-end proved one thing—what a difference a foot makes—But the outcome of the game in no way hampered the Saturday night—or Sunday—activities. The guests were having fun at the various parties—some at home—some at the Lincoln Country club—others at Hillcrest, and a fair share at the University club.

ONE OF Saturday night's parties was an informal birthday celebration—a surprise party for which Mrs. Ted Liggett was hostess when she entertained in honor of Mr. Liggett's birthday anniversary. Nine guests were invited for a buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Liggett.

AND WE found that the Sunday calendar, in addition to all of the homecoming affairs, included a courtesy for a December bride-elect, Miss Elizabeth Stoesz, and her fiance, Donald Wickham, whose marriage will be solemnized on Saturday, Dec. 5.

The party was a 12:30 o'clock no host dinner for which friends of the bridegroom-elect were hosts and hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Reinicke. Dinner places were arranged for 30, and the honorees were presented with a miscellaneous shower.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kendall McCann of Chicago, who arrived in Lincoln Sunday morning.

THIS evening Miss Stoesz will be complimented when Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carson preside at dinner at the University club. The guest list will include only members of the families.

THE dessert supper and bridge party for which Mrs. Charles Sheldon will be hostess at her home next Thursday evening, also will be in pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Stoesz. Twelve guests have been invited for the supper and bridge, and will present the bride-elect with a kitchen shower.

Park Mothers

An important business meeting for the room mothers of Park School has been called for Tuesday. The meeting will begin at 1:30 o'clock and will be held in room 112 of the school.

Some New Neighbors

set until the end of the school year since she is a freshman at the University of Colorado at Boulder—and a Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge. However, the young coed from Colorado was in town the past week-end—to visit her family—and to attend the Colorado-Nebraska game.

The Brides' Book Says:

Miss Lillian Guest, who will become the bride of James H. Chapman on Saturday evening, Dec. 5, at the First Plymouth Congregational Church, will be honored at a miscellaneous shower when Miss Winifred Stolz entertains at her home on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 22. Twelve guests have been invited to a miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. John Hurst will be hostess on Tuesday, Nov. 24, when she honors Mrs. Guest.

Mrs. Herbert Hirsch, sister of the bride-elect, will be Miss Guest's matron of honor, and the maid of honor is another sister, Miss Margaret Guest of Washington, D.C. Mrs. Kenneth P. Guest, sister-in-law of the bride-to-be, Miss Winifred Stolz, and Miss Shirley Harrison, Norfolk, complete the list of feminine attendants.

Lynn Hurst will be the flower girl, and Billie Guest, nephew of the bride-to-be, will act as ringbearer.

Robert Wilkens of Huron, S.D., will serve Mr. Chapman as best man, and the ushers include Joseph Kain, Chicago; Jack Williams, Omaha; Paul Barney and Edgar Chicoine.

Mu Phi Epsilon District Meets

Returning home Sunday evening were Mrs. Murray Spurgin, Miss Ruth Haberle and Janice Redell, members of Mu Phi Epsilon national music sorority, who attended a district meeting of the national organization last week-end at Kansas City, Mo.

Modern Library To Be Minden's First

Dedication Day Is Near

MINDEN, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special)—Dedication ceremonies for Minden's first complete library building are expected to be held here within a few weeks.

The ultra-modern $50,000 structure was announced near completion Sunday with only interior finishing work still remaining. The date for completion has been set at around Nov. 20.

The structure, to be known as the Jensen Memorial Library, was donated to the city of Minden by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jensen of Minden, Jensen, a pioneer Kearney County resident, has been president of the Minden Library Board for 46 years.

Jensen said Sunday that "The city needed this building pretty badly. It will be the first library building this city has had." Until now the city library has been housed in a room of the county courthouse where it was very crowded for space.

The new building is of brick construction, measuring 72 by 42 feet. Inside it will include separate reading rooms for adults and for children, a meeting room and a room for simple browsing.

Space will also be provided for a projection room and for the librarian's office.

Modern Minden Jensen Library To Open Soon

The Jensen Memorial Library at Minden will be formally opened within a few weeks. The library, donated to the city by Andrew Jensen of Minden, includes the latest features in public library design. (Star Staff Photo).

Carleton Church Has Anniversary

CARLETON, Neb. — (Lincoln Star Special) — More than 150 persons attended the 65th anniversary service Sunday of the Brethren Church here.

The Rev. W. Clayton Berkshire, secretary of the National Missionary Board, Ashland, O., was the main speaker.

The congregation was organized on Mar. 14, 1888 and the first pastor was Elder George W. Debolt. The only two living charter members, Alex Dudgeon, Sr., of Longmont, Calif., and Mrs. Andrew Griffith-Peterson of Vallejo, Calif., were unable to attend the anniversary service.

Present total of the congregation is 102 and the Rev. Thomas A. Shannon is pastor.

Plattsmouth Masons' Home Rededicated

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special)—A rededication program Sunday commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Nebraska Masonic Home for Aged here drew more than 1,500 persons.

Louis E. Smith of Lincoln, Masonic Home trustee, reviewed the home's history. William Evers, superintendent of the home for the past 32 years, discussed some of the unusual incidents in the home's history such as the elopement from the home of a couple both in their 80s.

Local and state Masonic officers were also included on the program with Herbert T. White of Omaha, president of the board of trustees, presiding.

Persons attending the program later toured the home, including its new half-million-dollar addition.

The home was opened in September, 1903, and dedicated on Oct. 30, 1903.

SCS Plan Outcome In Doubt

Agency Elimination May Not Bring Saving

By B. R. ROTHENBERGER
Star Staff Writer

Just what will happen to the Soil Conservation Service program under Agriculture Secretary Benson's reorganization plan is still anyone's guess. But if it is meant to go on in its present scope and character on the farm level then the pending elimination of the SCS regional agencies of which Nebraska has one, will not save a great deal of money.

Some heads will fall and Nebraska may become farther removed from top specialists. But they will reside somewhere and continue to do business because they are necessary to the program.

Of course, if the program is slated for a substantial cut-back then it will be another story.

Landowner Acceptance

A run-down of the soil conservation structure in the Lincoln region provides an interesting picture. The six state area involves 290,000,000 acres subject to conservation. It numbers 159,201 farmers who are participating in SCS programs which embrace 27,808 farms. Reorganization or not, these figures represent landowner acceptance of conservation. The scope of the program will have to deal with these facts whatever type of organization is adopted.

It is also significant that the region has 1,668 SCS employees. Only 168 of them are in the Lincoln regional office. Sixty-six are employed in state offices and 42 in the areas. The great majority of SCS workers are out working and walking on the land where the actual work is being done to the soil. So if every post on the regional level were eliminated and not replaced then 90 per cent of the region's conservation force would not be primarily affected.

H. G. Bobst, Lincoln region director, declined to speculate on the Benson reorganization plan since the details still rest in Washington secrecy, but he ventured to say that while the regional offices might safely pass from the picture most of the functions would have to be continued somewhere. The regional staff houses specialists and performs services which relieve the hundreds of field conservationists and technicians of almost every task except that of on-the-ground aid to the land owner.

"We prepare the annual budget estimates for the six state area and in turn allocate to each state its share of the appropriation," said Bobst. "We handle all the purchasing, disburse all the money, pay all the salaries and train and register workers. Except for 60 clerical workers for all the region's headquarter departments these services require only 60 people."

The remaining 86 employees are directly connected with soil conservation, performing specialized services on a level justified by a six-state program. No single state could occupy the full time of such.

The regional engineering division is one of the special services. It does all the soil map making, takes care of design and construction of involved projects, provides the top counsel in irrigation and drainage practices and contains engineers who are specialists on hydrology, sedimentation and construction equipment. The engineering division has 26 attaches.

Another division takes care of planning and devotes time to watershed development and flood control. It has nine specialists.

Soil Surveys

A third division of five specialists takes care of soil surveys while a fourth occupies itself with soil and plant management. It provides for an agronomist, a biologist, range nursery, woodland and conservation specialists. They are the men who pass on project plans to make sure that what is to be done will not impair the greatest usefulness of the land afterwards.

This is one of the divisions that the Benson plan intends to disperse by distributing the individual duties to the land grant colleges.

In defense of the regional principle of putting all the specialists under one roof and out in the place where the work is being done, Bobst pointed to the factors of time-saving and to a better meeting of minds where specialists meet face to face to adjudge specific and familiar projects.

Private Business Pattern

"We have patterned the regional service on the principle of private business," Bobst said. "The cost ratio of main office is less than 11 per cent of the gross. That's lower than lots of private businesses. Being close to the job has had lots to do with it."

The Soil Conservation Service is an outgrowth of the Department of Interior's former soil erosion service. It was transferred to the Department of Agriculture in 1935 and at first occupied itself with preparing demonstration projects. Nebraska had three, at Albion, Ralston and Syracuse. State coordinators were employed in those days largely to counsel land owners who wanted to improve their farms.

Orange Bowl Agreement Is Signed

Representatives of the Big Seven and Atlantic Coast conferences and of the Orange Bowl committee Sunday signed an agreement calling for top teams in the two leagues to play in the Miami, Fla., Bowl on New Year's Day in 1954 and 1955. Left to right, seated, are W. Bruce McIntosh, president of the Orange Bowl committee; Dr. R. I. Throckmorton of Manhattan, Kan., signing for the Big Seven; and Dr. J. T. Penney of Columbia, S.C., signing for the ACC. Standing, left to right, are Stuart Patton of Miami, Neb.; Van C. Kussrow of Miami, and Dr. Goary E. Lions Take Western Lead As Rams Tied

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit's Lions took over the undisputed lead of the Western Conference of the National Football League Sunday and the Cleveland Browns, pace-setters in the Eastern Division, remained unbeaten but only by the slim margin of two points.

The Lions defeated the Green Bay Packers, 14-7, while the best of the Los Angeles Rams could do was a 24-2 tie with the winless Chicago Cardinals. And the San Francisco 49ers bowed to the Browns, 23-21.

The results left Detroit with a record of six victories and two defeats; Los Angeles with a 5-2 mark, and San Francisco with a 5-3 season's performance. Ties are not counted in the standings.

In the Eastern Conference, the Philadelphia Eagles rolled up the highest score of the day in defeating the Baltimore Colts, 45-14, and their fifth straight victory. But they still remained two and one-half games back of the Browns.

The Chicago Bears edged the Washington Redskins, 25-24, and the Pittsburgh Steelers scored in the last minute to defeat the New York Giants, 14-10.

A crowd of 80,000, by far the biggest turnout in the six games, saw the Browns keep their perfect record intact on three field goals by Lou Groza, Otto Graham's sharp passing and sturdy defense.

More than half of the scoring was crammed into the fourth quarter, which opened with Cleveland leading, 13-7. Groza had kicked a field goal in each of the second and third quarters for the margin.

Sooner Handy Man

Max Boydston, 195-pound junior, plays both end and fullback for the Oklahoma Sooners, who meet Nebraska Saturday.

Sooners Here Saturday, NU 21-Point Underdog

Husker blocking became shoddy when the foe's goal line loomed. This was masterfully illustrated in the final moments when the Huskers could not score in four plays from the five-yard line. Plain and simple, the Nebraska forwards simply couldn't budge the hard-charging Buffs when it counted.

Aside from the gall stones of Coach Bill Glassford, the Huskers will enter the Oklahoma game in top physical condition. Guard Max Kitzelman, who missed the Iowa State and Colorado games because of a sprained ankle, is expected back in the lineup.

Glassford suffered an attack of gall stones before game time Saturday, but recovered sufficiently to sit out the long afternoon. The Husker member, who has been suffering from the ailment all season, hopes to wait until the Tuesday after the Oklahoma game to be hospitalized for the necessary operation.

Halfback Jim McWilliams suffered a leg cramp during the third quarter, but was pronounced fit Sunday. His replacement, Dennis Korinek, the Huskers' early-season spark, ran hard. He picked up 22 yards on one slash and averaged 7.2 yards.

Big Seven-ACC Orange Bowl Contract Signed

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Big Seven and the Atlantic Coast Conference Sunday signed a two-year contract matching champions of the two circuits for the Orange Bowl game at Miami on New Year's Day.

The agreement had the apparent effect of naming Oklahoma and Maryland for the 1954 Orange Bowl game.

Oklahoma already has clinched a bid by winning the Big Seven title. Although Duke has an outside chance in the ACC, unbeaten Maryland is a heavy favorite to represent that conference.

The Star's state high school football championships in Classes B and C go to Holdrege and Grant, two undefeated Cornhusker teams that never knew a bad night.

The Phelps County Dusters of Coach Jess Kelfer and Ed Haefler's impressive Perkins County Plainsmen take their titles into the central and western parts of the state while two strong contenders from the eastern area stop in secure second positions.

St. Bonaventure of Columbus is the Class B runner-up, Geneva is a close second in C, especially after winning a 9-0 game from rated Loup City, a B team, in the Trans-Nebraska playoff last week.

Holdrege was not pressed during its first four games. Unbeaten Broken Bow was dropped by 26-19 in the first recognized test. A Lexington team which had pressed McCook fell by two touchdowns in the next stiff game, and the Dusters polished that excellent record with a surprising 30-6 romp over the rated McCook team in the closer Armstrong game.

Bonaventure played a weaker schedule than that of Holdrege but handled all opponents by margins indicative of their ability. Wide victories over Omaha Holy Name and Sidney were season high points.

Seward and York end in a tie for third, a condition reflective of their mutual experiences this season. The two Central Ten squads tied in a 7-7 game early this fall. They split the eastern division title but Seward received the bid and whipped Fullerton for the crown. Seward had offensive power based upon a strong line and sharp running.

York rallied after a slow start, finished with one point defeat at Hastings, one of the best in Class A.

Ogallala is fifth with only a loss to Grant to mar the record book. Broken Bow is sixth with a good year highlighted by the fine performance at Holdrege.

Seventh and eighth places go to the west. Bayard nips Gordon for the lead, a feat which the Bayard team accomplished on the field.

Tecumseh, the defensive giant, wins ninth place and Loup City takes tenth. Tecumseh's play at Falls City marked the best effort of this good team.

Geneva demonstrated sound football to fans in the area south of Lincoln. The Wildcat schedule was strong, their ability to win close games impressive, and their continuous improvement evident.

said, but a decision is likely to be made before Dec. 6, the date on which the teams to play in the bowl game must be determined.

Kussrow said the ACC representative, to be picked by a conference vote. "No doubt will be made known well before that date."

And, he noted, Maryland "looked wonderful" in defeating Mississippi 38-0 Saturday.

He said, too, that the Orange Bowl committee already has been deluged with ticket requests from Oklahoma. "They told us that no matter how many tickets they get, they won't be enough."

Maryland, ND Only Unbeaten Major Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty-one college football teams, including only Notre Dame and Maryland among major eleven, still clung to perfect records today.

West Virginia and Maryland State fell from the unbeaten and untied ranks Saturday. West Virginia bowed to South Carolina, 20-14. Maryland State lost to Virginia Union 15-7.

Notre Dame, the nation's No. 1 team, has seven straight victories. Maryland, rated No. 2, has nine. The present list of unbeaten-untied teams:

Turpin Is Married; Mother Is Unhappy

WELLINGTON, England (AP)—Randolph Turpin, 25, British middleweight boxing champion, and Miss Gwyneth Price, 27, daughter of a Welsh farmer, were married Sunday.

Turpin was shy and solemn during the seven-minute ceremony in the register office and rushed away with his bride without even waiting for a copy of the marriage certificate to be filled out.

Turpin's mother could hardly have been termed pleased when she got the wedding news.

"Wait until he comes here," said Mrs. Beatrice Manley at Warwick, where she was on the verge of tears. "I'll give him a piece of my mind, and how. He has not told me a thing about this. When I asked him on Friday to stop play acting and tell me the truth he just grinned and said 'Eve Mum' and drove away. 'Really I don't know what he's up to. I would have thought he would have consulted me or just told me about it. After all, I am his mother. As I said before, when I see Randolph Turpin I am going to tell him a few home truths and in no uncertain manner.'"

Mrs. Manley thought her son was going to send his car to take her to the ceremony.

But "I would not have gone to the wedding anyway because of certain private reasons. But he should have had the decency to invite his mother and tell her it was going to happen."

What's more, she said, her new daughter-in-law will not be welcome in her home.

Ten Hoff Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fred Kirsch, manager of German heavyweights Hein Ten Hoff, said Sunday he has accepted an offer to have Ten Hoff meet Nino Valdes in Germany in January.

Valdes knocked out Heinz Neuhaus, European heavyweight champion, Sunday in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round non-title fight at Dortmund, Germany.

Vejar, Vince Martinez Mix

NEW YORK (AP)—Lanky Danny Bucceroni, mentioned as a February title opponent for heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, trains his big guns on Freddie Beshore in a national television ten rounder at Los Angeles Wednesday night.

The 6-3, 190-pound Philadelphia has won seven in a row and shouldn't have too much difficulty with the slow-moving heavyweight trial horse. Beshore has been thumped by the division's best, including Marciano. The Olympic Auditorium and TV fight is designed to show Bucky at his best.

Starting time is 9 p.m., CST, CBS telecasts.

Friday's top fight matches a couple of former TV whiz kids who haven't lived up to their ravens. The ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden sends Chico Vejar of Stamford, Conn., against Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., in a return bout.

Vejar, a drama student at NYU, whipped the favored Martinez, a former draftsman, in a ten at the Garden March 13, 1953. Chico has won his last 11 in a row. Martinez has won three straight.

Starting at 9 p.m., CST, the bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast.

The third national TV bout of the week is an interesting middleweight pairing between Pierre Langlois of France and St. Louis' Jesse Turner at the Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis. The ten-rounder, starting at 9 p.m., CST, will be telecast by ABC. St. Louis will be blacked out.

Willie Pep, the former featherweight champ, takes on Sonny Luciano of Paterson, N.J., in a lightweight ten at Charlotte, N.C., Saturday night.

MERRY MENAGERIE By Walt Disney

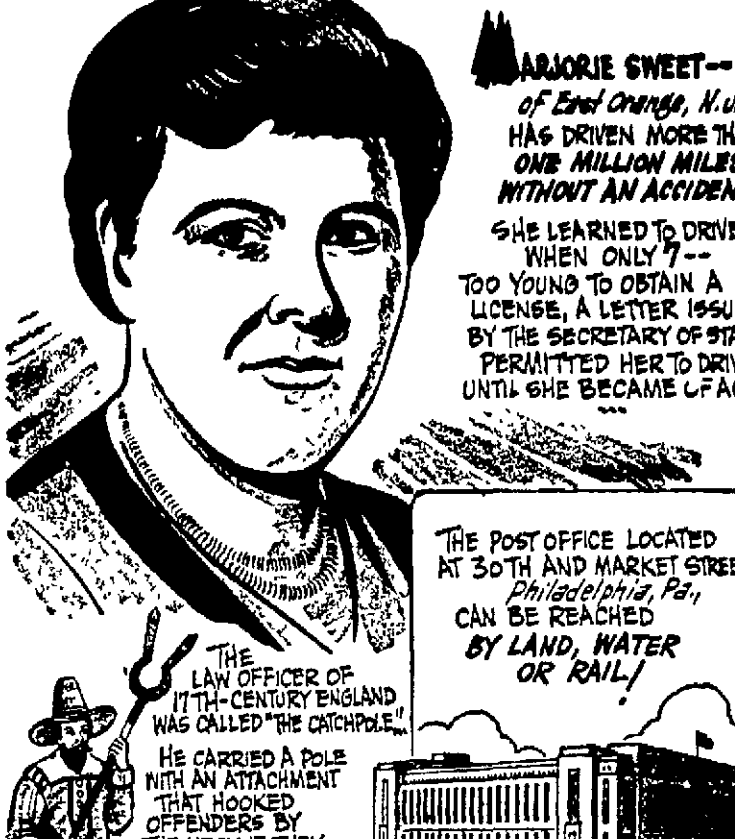

"He's REALLY asking for trouble—bought a blue serge suit!"

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

"THE IDEA WAS TO KEEP IT FROM FALLING ON OUR SIDE!"

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS By Elsie Mix

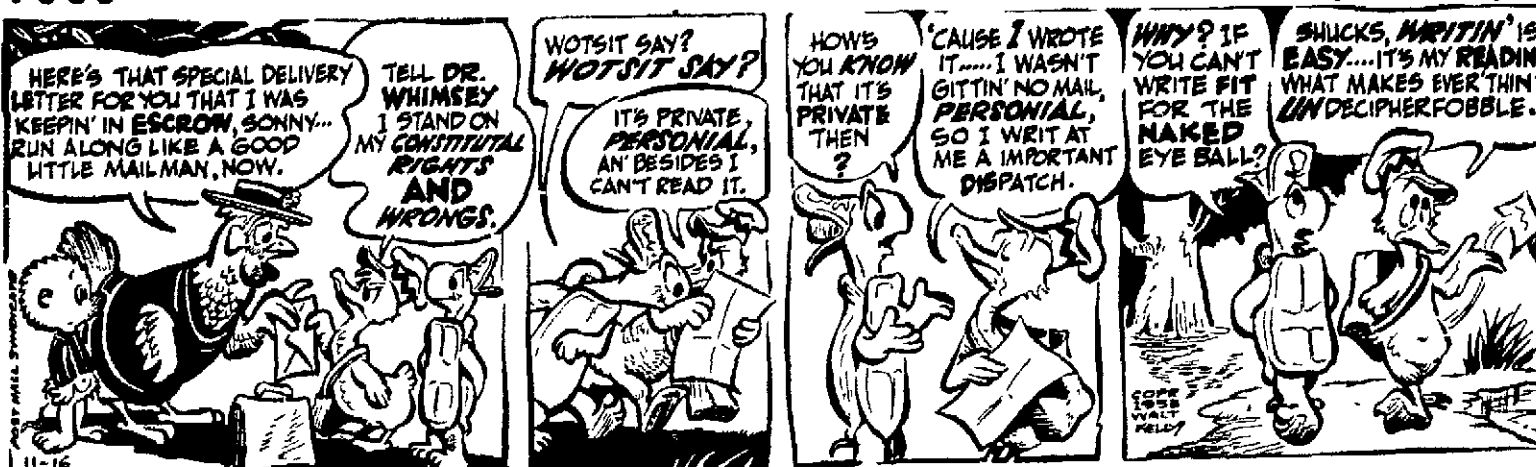

"THE POST OFFICE LOCATED AT 30TH AND MARKET STREETS, PHILADELPHIA, PA., CAN BE REACHED BY LAND, WATER OR RAIL!"

MODEST MAIDENS By Jay Alan

"DO YOU MIND IF I HAVE A NEW BATHROOM BUILT, DARLING, JUST FOR YOUR WASHING?"

POGO By Walt Kelly

"HERE'S THAT SPECIAL DELIVERY LETTER FOR YOU THAT I WAS KEEPING IN ESCROW, CONNOR... RUN ALONG LIKE A GOOD LITTLE MAILMAN, NOW."

DICK TRACY By Chester Gould

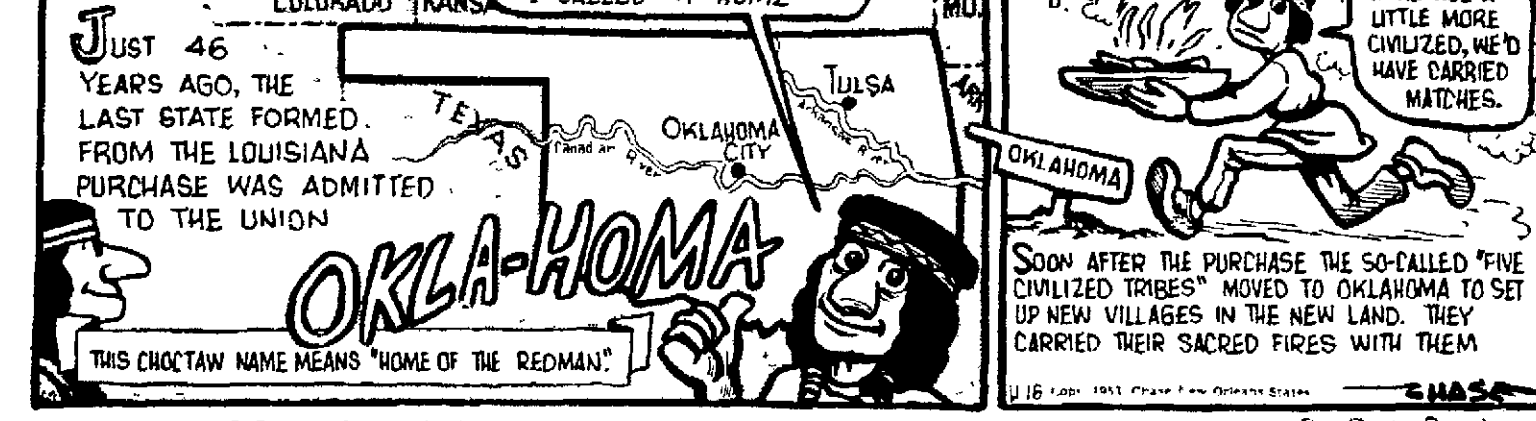

"BUT I WAS MERELY LIGHTING HER CIGARETTE. HER LIGHTER CONKED OUT."

THE HEART OF JULIET JONES By Stan Drake

"YOU'D BETTER WATCH IT, PONY, OR YOU WON'T HAVE A MAID! YOU CAN'T TALK TO A LITTLE THING LIKE HER THAT WAY."

LOUISIANA PURCHASE By John Chase

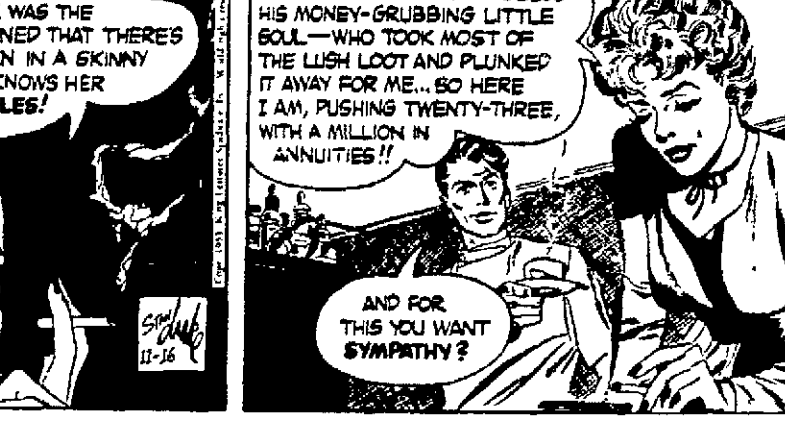

"JUST 46 YEARS AGO, THE LAST STATE FORMED FROM THE LOUISIANA PURCHASE WAS ADMITTED TO THE UNION."

MARY WORTH By Ken Ernst

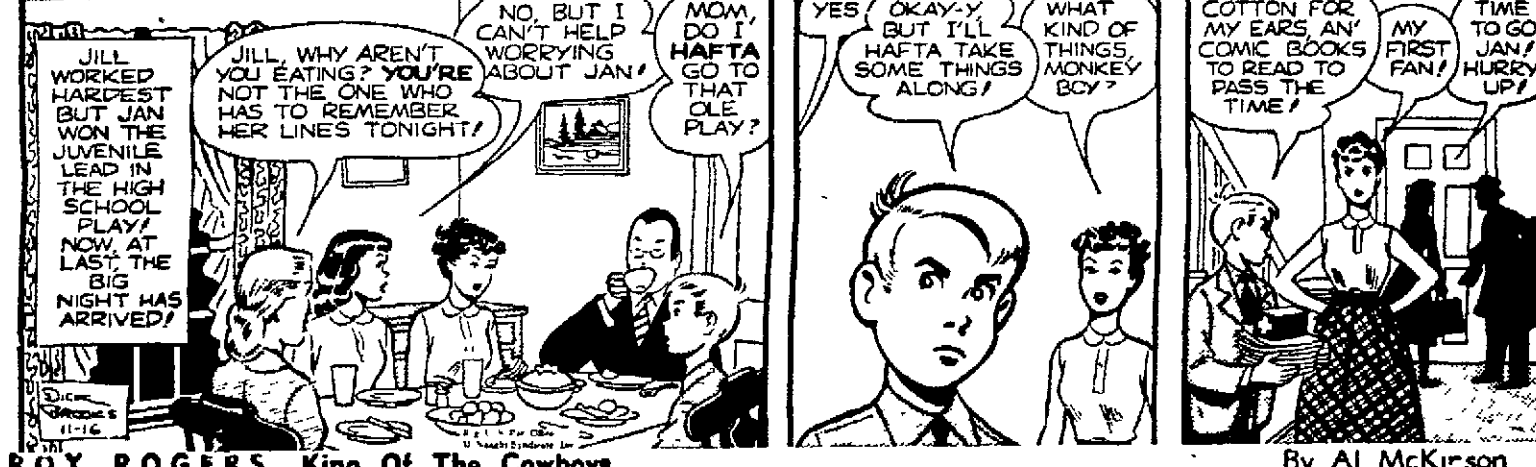

"ALL RIGHT, MISS TALBOT, TALK. WHERE DO I BEGIN?"

RIP KIRBY By Alex Raymond

WISHING WELL By William J. Miller

"HERE IS A PRESENT LITTLE GAME THAT WILL GIVE YOU A MESSAGE EVERY DAY. IT IS A NUMERICAL PUZZLE DESIGNED TO SPELL OUT YOUR FORTUNE. COUNT THE LETTERS IN YOUR FIRST NAME. IF THE NUMBER OF LETTERS IS 6 OR MORE, SUBTRACT 6. IF THE NUMBER IS LESS THAN 6, ADD 6. THE RESULT IS YOUR KEY NUMBER. START AT THE UPPER LEFT-HAND CORNER OF THE RECTANGLE AND CIRCLE EVERY ONE OF YOUR KEY NUMBERS. LEFT TO RIGHT, THEN READ THE MESSAGE. THE LETTERS UNDER THE CIRCLED NUMBERS GIVE YOU THE MESSAGE.
